Preparedness of Kentucky State Police Against Terrorism. Edition No. 1

Description: In view of the concerns that are generated by terrorism, the question of how well prepared law enforcement agencies are, both at the local and federal levels, is a vital issue. Considering the increasing importance of preparedness of local law enforcement authorities, the purpose of this research study aims to examine the perceptions of agency preparedness among law enforcement officers as an indirect means of assessing agency preparedness. An examination of all local law enforcement agencies in the United States is outside the scope of this study, the objective of this study, instead, is to examine the extent to which law enforcement personnel of the Kentucky State Police believe their agency is prepared to deal with a potential terrorist threat if one should occur.
