
Description:
Diversity has proven positive affect on the community with in an institution of Higher Education, enriching students' lives and impacting faculty satisfaction. The Supreme Court's 2003 decision in Grutter v. Bollinger demonstrated how fragile the future of Affirmative Action is in facilitating diversity in higher education. This volume provides a forum to discuss the ways to increase and strategies to manage diversity with in the legal and political boundaries of the United States in the absence of Affirmative Action.
