Air Freshener Market in the US 2014-2018

Description: About Air Fresheners

Air fresheners are predominantly aerosol sprays that mask odors and induce freshness in the atmosphere. Air fresheners are composed of formaldehyde, petroleum distillates, aerosol propellants, and p-dichlorobenzene. Apart from their primary usage, air fresheners are also used aesthetically to enhance the environment by appealing to the senses. This has given rise to specialty products that have different formats such as cones, scented candles, reed diffusers, oils, gels, wax strips, and plug-ins. While some products incorporate one aspect, others integrate both thus complementing the primary benefit of air fresheners. Air fresheners are essential and practical as they help maintain a pleasant atmosphere in households, offices, and vehicles.

The analysts forecast the Air Freshener market in the US will grow at a CAGR of 1.37 percent over the period 2013-2018.
