Global E-learning Market 2015-2019

Description: About E-learning

E-learning is a learning conducted through internet and other computer devices. It has been widely accepted by both Academic and Non-academic sectors. It is gaining in popularity among corporates as well. Computer-based learning, internet-based learning, and web-based learning are the forms of e-learning. E-learning service providers deliver learning solutions through the latest technology, thus providing users with rich media and graphic-based learning. As this form of learning is cost-effective and helps improve employees' efficiency and productivity, many firms worldwide have replaced the traditional form of learning and training with e-learning.

The analysts forecast the Global E-learning market 2015-2019 will grow at a CAGR of 15.06 percent over the period 2014-2019.
