Web Conferencing Services Market in the Americas 2015-2019

Description: About Web Conferencing Services

Web conferencing is a service that helps real-time communication between participants who log in with credentials using a secure URL provided by the vendor. This service is ideal for virtual meetings for a group of participants. With an internet connection, these services allow real-time data streaming and sharing of information simultaneously across geographically dispersed locations. Web conferencing software allows live meetings such as webinars, demonstrations, presentations, training, and brainstorming sessions through internet. During meetings, users can view and share materials such as slides or videos and use standard phone lines or VoIP for audio communications.

The analysts forecast Web Conferencing Services market in the Americas to grow at a CAGR of 5.91 percent over the period 2014-2019.
