Global Recycled Paper Packaging Market 2015-2019

Description:
About Recycled Paper Packaging
Recycled paper packaging uses paper products as raw materials, which are derived from waste paper generated by end-consumers or wastage created during the production of other paper packaging products. It has many advantages such as reducing the cost of packaging material up to 40 percent. Paper is such a material that can be recycled up to 10 times to be reproduced as new products and used in different applications. With an increase in environmental concerns worldwide and increased need to reduce toxic emissions, recycled packaging is increasingly being adopted by the Food and Beverages, Healthcare, and Personal Care industries.

The analysts forecast the Global Recycled Paper Packaging market to grow at a CAGR of 7.73 percent over the period 2014-2019.
