Global Hemodialysis Market 2015-2019

Description: About hemodialysis

Hemodialysis is a procedure in which excess fluids and toxins are mechanically filtered from the blood of individuals when the kidneys are not able to function normally. It is the treatment used when there is an acute and chronic disturbance in the functioning of the kidneys. It plays a major role in improving a patient's quality of life. For hemodialysis, vascular access is needed for blood to flow out of the body to be filtered and pumped by a hemodialysis machine through a dialyzer. Hemodialysis can be performed in an in-center facility or at home.

The analysts forecast the global hemodialysis market to grow at a CAGR of 4.73% over the period 2015-2019.
