Bulletproof Security Glass Market in China 2015-2019

Description:

About Bulletproof Glass

Bulletproof glass, also known as bullet-resistant or ballistic glass, is a strong and optically transparent glass, used for protection against the impact of bullets or any other ammunition. It is made by combining two or more layers of different materials, usually one hard and the other soft materials. The refractive index of both the glasses used in the manufacture of bulletproof glass should be the same to make it transparent. Its thickness varies from 0.25 to 4 inches and is usually prepared by sandwiching a layer of thermoplastic with glass laminates, and the number of layers stacked depends on the level of security sought out of its usage.

The global bulletproof glass market has witnessed a rapid expansion in the past decade with the US and China representing the largest markets. The market in China is worth paying attention due to two reasons; one being the fastest growth rate displayed by the market and the other being the sheer size of the market. The financial services, construction, and automotive industries remain the largest end-users of bulletproof glass, and the scope of its usage is rapidly expanding.

The analysts forecast the bulletproofsecurity glass market in China to grow at a CAGR of 16.76% over the period 2015-2019.
