2.5 - 4G Monthly Newsletter

Description: The entire spectrum of wireless telecommunications has taken on a whole new complexion. Starting with cellular mobile radio, wireless communications has ballooned to include wireless LANs, data links, substitute for building wiring, personal communications, remote control of lighting and other functions. The FCC is considering opening new regions of the spectrum or shifting users to new frequency bands. New technology such as digital and spread spectrum will allow users to co-exist in existing bands allowing greater frequency efficiency. Developments in technology, business activity and regulation are occurring at a dizzying rate, making it essential for professionals in the field to subscribe to “Wireless- Cellular”
