Global Lubricant Additives Market 2015-2019

Description:
Lubricant additives are chemical compounds that are used to improve the performance of lubricant formulations. In addition to improving the performance characteristics of lubricating oils, these additives aid significantly in the development of prime movers and industrial machinery. The development of modern passenger car engines, hypoid gears, automatic transmissions, high-speed gas and steam turbines, rail and marine diesel engines, industrial processing machinery, as well as many other types of equipment, would have been greatly retarded in the absence of these additives and the associated performance benefits. These additives also play a significant role in the emissions and energy management in various automotive and industrial end uses.

The analysts forecast the global lubricant additives market to grow at a CAGR of 2.68% during 2014-2019.
