Description: About plastic caps and closures
The caps and closures segment is an essential part of the packaging industry. This segment serves various end-user segments, including beverage packaging, non-food and beverage packaging, food, pharmaceuticals, industrial packaging, personal care, and automotive. There are several variants in caps and closures, which includes those made from metal, plastic, and rubber/cork. Caps and closures include lug caps, snap caps, roll-on closures, threaded caps, stoppers, and canning lids.

Features such as versatility and durability make plastic an ideal material for making caps and closures. Their lightweight reduces handling and shipping costs, which in turn reduces the overall cost.
