Electrical and Electronics Retailing in Italy - Market Summary and Forecasts; Comprehensive overview of the market, consumer, and competitive context, with retail sales value and forecasts to 2019

Description:

Summary
Due to long recession and sluggish economic growth, price has become one of the key drivers for purchases. Italians are postponing their big-ticket electronic purchases, and the retail market for electrical and electronics is falling both in value and as a percentage of total retail sales. However, sales of smartphones, tablets, and e-readers have remained high, influenced by consumer preference for the latest trendy gadgets. The online channel commanded a share of 10.3% of total category sales in 2014, and customers looking for better deals and convenience will continue to drive the growth of the online channel.

Key Findings
- Electrical and electronics sector is forecast to register a negative growth over the next five years.
- Customers are looking for products that offer high connectivity and that are integrated with other devices they are using, which makes wearable electronics popular in Italy.
- Specialist retailers were the largest channel with 79.2% of consumer electronics sales in 2014.
- The online channel commanded a share of 10.3% of total category sales in 2014 and will increase its market share to 25.2% by 2019.
