Books, News and Stationery Retailing in Japan - Market Summary and Forecasts; Comprehensive overview of the market, consumer, and competitive context, with retail sales value and forecasts to 2019

Description:
Sales of books, news and stationery products in Japan is expected to witness a decline over the next five years. Increasing demand for electronic devices such as Kobo and Amazon Kindle is resulting in electronic consumption of books and news thereby acting as major deterrents to the growth of physical sales of books. The increasing median age of the population and declining under 18 years population means less demand for general stationery, which is another threat to retailers. The sector is expected to witness a decline over the next five years, at a CAGR of -0.9% in 2014-2019

Key Findings
- Advent of digital technology, increasing internet penetration, and increasing adoption of mobile devices is projected to result in a decline of sales of books, news and stationery products.
- Books, news and stationery segment is projected to witness a decline over the next few years and account for 2.8% of the total retail market by 2019.
- Online retail channel to post healthy growth in the forecast period
- Increasing median age of population and declining under 18 years population is expected to affect the demand for stationery products
