Global Specialty Paper Market 2015-2019

Description:
Specialty papers are defined as papers that are manufactured or subsequently converted to a specific usage. They are either manufactured separately, or normal paper is converted into specialty paper by coating it with a specialty paper and pulp chemicals, thus making it usable for a specific application. These papers have specific characteristics such as being lightweight with high opacity, which puts them into a special grade in comparison to normal packaging papers. These papers play a significant role in packaging, printing, and industrial use. Food contact paper, décor paper, coffee and tea filter paper, and cigarette paper.

The report forecasts the global specialty paper market to grow at a CAGR of 3.28% over the period 2014-2019.
