Home décor products have generated substantial demand among consumers owing to the growing consumer's interest towards the concept of home décor. Asia-Pacific is the leading market, occupying around 31% of the market share followed by Europe.

The market players are focusing on developing eco-friendly products since popularity of these products is growing among consumers, owing to rising environment awareness. Among the three key product segments; home textiles, floor coverings and furniture, floor covering segment occupied the largest share in the overall home decor market in 2014. Rapid urbanization, increasing disposable income and growing/booming real estate sector in the region, are main driving forces for the growth of home décor market in the region.

The three product segments are further bifurcated into sub categories based on their type. In 2014, floor covering segment was dominated by carpets & rugs, followed by tiles. North America held the largest share in vinyl & rubber flooring segment and is expected to maintain its share during 2015-2020, owing to stringent government regulations restricting the use of hazardous floor covering materials. Additionally, low maintenance, high durability and comparatively lower price than other flooring materials, are other factors that have driven the high demand of vinyl and rubber flooring in North America.

In developed countries such as the U.S. and U.K, eco-friendly home décor products have generated a high demand owing to the increased environment awareness. Multifunctional furniture is popular among the consumers in developing countries. Online buying of home décor products is gaining popularity, worldwide. Globally, consumers are more inclined towards buying stylish and luxury home décor products.

Geographically, APAC is the leading market for home décor products. In emerging markets such as India, China and Brazil, the residential real estate industry has witnessed a considerable growth in the recent past, thereby fostering favorable environment for the home décor market in the region. Additionally, high urbanization rate, increasing disposable income and improving life style are other important factors spurring the market growth in the region.
