Testing Inspection and Certification Market: Testing Methodology (external & internal condition) Applications (Quality, Safety, Others) End User Industry (Agriculture, Medical, Others) & Geography- Forecast (2016-2021)

Description: For confirming the safety, availability and cost effectiveness of a product Testing, Inspection and Certification (TIC) is required. In order to meet the expectations of customers, the products are required to function at maximum efficiency. Enhancing the performance of these products requires specialized technical and engineering expertise. So, expert and regular inspections are required to safeguard the performance of these products more smoothly and efficiently. In addition, these measures are necessary to achieve compliance with the various safety and quality requirements of national and international standards and regulations. Certification of these products also means confirmation of quality.

The overall market can be segmented based on testing Methodology, TIC services and end user industries. This report consists of various testing methodology i.e. External Condition (Visual Testing, Magnetic Particle Testing, Eddy Current Testing, Penetrant Testing, etc.) and Internal Condition (Ultrasonic Testing, Radiographic Testing, Leakage Testing, etc.). On the basis of TIC application, the market can be categorized as Quality and Safety Services, Product Performance Evaluation, Certification and Valuation of Shipments, Valuation of imports with respect to standards, Industrial Inspections, etc. This is used in several industries such as Agricultural, Automotive, Food, Life Science, Medicine, Oil and Gas, Commercial, etc.

The market is also analyzed based on geographic regions which are grouped into Americas, APAC, Europe as well as RoW regions. According to geographical segmentation, America is leading in Global Testing Inspection and Certification Market. European countries such as U.K., France and others are the growing markets in this field. APAC countries such as China, Korea, Japan, etc. house some of the leading companies serving this market.

The global testing, inspection and certification (TIC) market is extremely valued. Globalization and execution of standard rules and regulations in product safety and efficiency are driving its development.

The major companies of TIC are Eurofins Scientific, Inc (U.S.A.), Bureau Veritas S.A. (France), Dekra SE (Germany), Intertek Group PLC (U.K.), Saudi Ground Services Co. (Saudi Arabia), etc.
