
Description: Frozen desserts such as ice-creams and frozen yogurts are generally consumed as snacks. Most of these products are prepared from dairy products such as milk and cream. Globally, ice-cream has been the most preferred and popular frozen dessert. This market hosts wide number of desserts; however most of them are limited to specific regions like Kulfi in India, Gelato in Italy and so on. Frozen desserts are available in various forms, shapes, colors and packages. The flavor profile, ingredients used and inclusions employed differ across these products. Manufacturers try to appease the consumers by offering products which matches the local taste preferences. There has been a considerable shift in the preferences of consumers towards nutritional value of the products while giving equal importance to taste and texture. In addition, desserts with combination flavors are finding traction in the developed nations. The global market is fragmented with the presence of numerous regional and global players.

The report segments the market by product type, by buying type, by distribution channel and by geography. Global frozen desserts market is broadly categorized into Ice-creams, frozen yogurt, frozen cakes, mousse, sherbet, frozen novelties, others. The trends and dynamics of the market are: analyzed based on various distribution channels such as supermarkets/hypermarkets, food service outlets, convenience stores, specialty stores, online stores and others. The potential of a distribution channel for frozen desserts depends upon various factors such as concentration of providers in that region, penetration of processed food sector and reach of retail chains and preference of consumers. The report also discusses the recent trends, opportunities, drivers, challenges, constraints and major developments prevailing in the market.
