Creating Opportunities: Finding A Way Out of “No Way"

Description: It is extremely costly for anybody in business to get stuck in challenges, unable to quickly come up with a solution and take quick action. However, there are times it seems like a solution just doesn't exist. You have probably heard yourself and others say, “just think outside the box;” yet you have no idea what the “box” represents in your situation, let alone how to find a unique solution. Obviously, if we want to think of a solution “outside-the-box” we need to first know the boundaries of the box we are in. This is where emotional intelligence training comes into play.

You will learn a self-management process to transcend the boundaries and create opportunities, feel, not just hopeful, but excited again, identify steps you can take to move forward, and in developing emotional awareness to drive you to implement the steps.
