Global Generic E-Learning Courses Market 2016-2020

Description: About the Generic E-Learning Courses Market

E-learning refers to learning through electronic gadgets, such as PCs, notebooks, and tablets. It is backed by ICT that enables users to learn 24/7 learning from any access point. The curriculum of e-learning includes archived and real-time information. There is no set standard of e-learning method used in the education market. Differentiation is primarily based on the type of content delivered and the mode of instruction, which could be classroom based, virtual, or blended learning environment.

Generic e-learning courses are standard courses offered by service providers, educational institutions, and experts. These courses are prepared as per the standard curriculum, which is universal for a given subject or topic.

The analysts forecast the global generic e-learning courses market to grow at a CAGR of 11.08% during the period 2016-2020.
