Middle East MRI Market - Growth, Trends And Forecasts (2015 - 2020)

Description:
The Middle Eastern MRI systems market is expected to reach US$775 million by 2020 growing at a CAGR of 6.5% during the forecast period 2015 to 2020. MRI being a very important diagnostic tool is used in all domains of medicine like cardiology, neurology and orthopaedics. It is replacing older technologies like CT because of its better precision and is as safer tool as it does not use ionizing radiations. MRI is categories into 3 types based on equipment into Open system, closed system and straight or upright system. The open system MRI has a growing market demand as it is preferred over that currently common closed type as it does not enclose the patient and prevents the common symptom inpatients like claustrophobia.

The Middle East market for MRI is fast growing. The limited manufacturing capacity of these countries increases the demand in the market. Most Middle Eastern country economies rely on Oil & Petroleum making them some of the richest in the world. The average per capita income in these countries is high making healthcare facilities more affordable. The awareness of healthcare and early diagnosis has increased; there is also a rise in the aging population and incidence of diseases and cancers. These factors are drivers of the MRI market in the Middle East. The MRI systems market can be segmented on the basis of structure (Open, Closed and Standing), resolution (low field, mid field and high field), applications (Neurological, Gastrointestinal, Cardiology and Oncology) and geographically (UAE, Qatar, Oman and other countries). Some of the key players are GE, Hitachi Medical Corporation, Philips Healthcare, Siemens Healthcare and Toshiba Medical Systems.

Drivers: Advanced healthcare facilities and advancements in technology drive the market. There is an increase in the aging population and incidence in diseases increasing the demand for advanced healthcare facilities like MRI.

Constraints: Though the technology is considered safe, the numbers of accidents associated have been increasing as the magnetic field is dangerous when the patients have embedded devices such as pacemakers and cochlear implants. The South American economy is still developing so the affordability for advanced facilities is less.
