
Description: The Global Healthcare Clinical Analytics Market has been estimated to be valued at USD XX million for the year 2015 and is projected to reach USD XX million by 2020 at a CAGR of XX% during 2015 to 2020. Healthcare analytics provide insights necessary to propel a business toward growth and success by evaluating healthcare information and make necessary decisions. It's an evidence-based strategy for data collection from multiple sources.

The end users for healthcare analytics include healthcare providers, pharmaceuticals, health insurance companies, clinical and medical research bodies/CROs, Biotechnology and others. Healthcare analytics are applied in the areas of Clinical Data Analytics, Financial Data Analytics, Operational and Administrative Analytics and Research Analytics.

Emergence of Big Data in healthcare, Return of investments within a short duration of time, increasing healthcare IT adoption and technological advances are few key major drivers of this market. However, security of data & lack of manpower with diverse analytical skills are some of the reasons which are hindering the growth of the market.

The Global Clinical Analytics Market in Healthcare has been segmented based on products, components and geographical regions. Based on the product type, the market is further segmented into Descriptive, Predictive and Prescriptive analytics. The components include Hardware, Software and Services.

Based on geography, the market is segmented into North America, Europe, Asia-Pacific and Rest of the World (ROW). North America has the largest share of the healthcare analytics market driven by the U.S. centralized healthcare system, followed by the Europe. Asia Pacific is fastest growing market owing to increasing awareness and adoption.

Many players in this market are trying to expand their product portfolio in order to top the global market. While few companies are entering into the market by acquisitions, top companies are expanding their growth in this market by acquiring other companies. Few companies adopted product innovation and new product launches as its key business strategy to ensure its dominance in this market.
