Aerostat Systems - Patent Overview in the years 2011 - 2016

Description: An aerostat is a platform which utilizes lighter than air gasses such as hydrogen, helium, and hot air gasses. These gasses helps the aerostat to produce lift with the same overall as air. Aerostats include powered airships and unpowered balloons. These balloons are tethered to the ground. The components of aerostat include light weight skin which comprises of helium gas to provide payload, buoyancy and ground station. The aerostat is used for intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance by military forces and also in civilian observation.

Aerostat systems market is segmented into six types based on the type of payload: electro-optics, thermal imaging camera, communication intelligence, electronic intelligence, surveillance radar, inertial navigation system. This payload are attached to the aerostat and are cost effective when compared to UAV. There are many companies who are working with their R&D to capture as many possible patents in this segment.

Who can use the report?

R&D personnel
- Helps in mapping the big players in the broad spectrum of the technology
- Helps in digging out white spaces that identify the technology gaps
- Cognizant about the chronological developments in the technological field for the last 5 years
- Finding alternative technical solutions to a problem

Directives
- Helps in knowing the innovative focus of companies, industries, and countries
- Determining the strengths and weaknesses of own or any particular company patent portfolios
- Spotting the new competitors

Legal assessors and representatives
- Filing trends either for the overall number of patents, or just for certain groupings in the last 5 years

Financial and fiscal assessors and representatives
- Forms the base for the evaluation of patents within the context of the control of organizational resources and accounting

Please note: As this product is updated at the time of order, dispatch will be 72 hours from the date the order and full payment is received.

Contents:
1. Objective
2. Overview
3. Search Strategy
4. Patent set segmentation
   (The patents obtained in the searches would be segregated based on the top 2 or 3 major categories on the search database itself.
   The patents can also be segregated by performing a detailed manual analysis where every patent would be read and the information would be listed under the categories. If the detailed analysis of each and every patent is required, the requestor can ask for the patent analysis report)
5. Categorization Tree
   (This represents the general overview of the major concepts disclosed in the patents and the number of patents in each segment)
6. IP Publication Trend
   (Graph 1: Patent count based on earliest publication year Graph 2: Patent count based on earliest priority year)
7. Top 10 Assignees Graph
8. Research Breadth across various jurisdictions: Key Statistics
   (Geographical distribution of patents with count of records, filing years and key assignees)
9. White Space Matrix (Technology)
(Possible number of charts and graphs will be provided for the major categories of the patent set)
10. Legal Status Graph
11. Summary
12. Disclaimer
Note: To have
a) In-depth patent analysis
b) Top Assignee-Key statistics
C) Top Inventors-Key Statistics
D) Companies new in technology space
E) More charts & graphs for the technological data existing in the patents
F) Patent Overview for more (say 6 or more) number of years or with no restriction of the years.
