Cinema Industry Research - Latin America

Description: Latin American cinema markets have grown massively this century without yet approaching market maturity. Despite economic challenges, 2015 and 2016 were generally good years for the industry. Looking ahead, growth looks set to continue, if at a slower pace, for the next few years, while there are additional opportunities in the shape of scope to consolidate what are, in many cases, still quite fragmented industries.

This latest report offers market statistics from 2000 onwards, profiles of the main film distributors and exhibitors in each market, five year forecasts and commentaries highlighting key issues in each market.
