
Description:
Animals have been a part of human lives since the start of civilization. Previously used for food, clothes and transportation, the role of animals have now expanded in the lives of people. According to “US Pet Food Market: Industry Trends, Share, Size, Growth, Opportunity and Forecast 2017-2022”, there has been a strong growth in the number of pet owners in the United States. Humanization of pets have led the owners to treat their pets as family. The concern for their well-being and healthy growth have increased their expenditure on nutritious pet foods. During 2009-2016, the pet food market in the United States grew at a CAGR of around 5% and currently accounts for 28% of the total global demand.

Pet humanization and trend of premium pet foods continue to be the major drivers of the US pet food market. Considering the health benefits, the pet owners are now opting for organic and natural food products, further stepping up the growth of this market. On account of increase in the number of dog ownership, the dog food represents a dominating segment accounting for the major share of the total pet food sales in the country. It is followed by cat food and others which include bird food, fish food and small mammal/reptile food.

This report provides a techno-commercial roadmap for setting up a pet food manufacturing plant. The study covers all the requisite aspects of the pet food industry. This ranges from macro overview of the market to micro details of the industry performance, processing and manufacturing requirements, project cost, project funding, project economics, expected returns on investment, profit margins, etc. This report is a must-read for entrepreneurs, investors, researchers, consultants, business strategists, and all those who are planning to foray into the US pet food market in any manner.
