Pakistan - Security Intelligence Reports

Description:

This new report service specializes in addressing security needs of national and international concerns operating in Pakistan, in the increasingly complex and volatile domestic and regional security situation.

With as volatile a security record as in Pakistan, timely information about potentially dangerous developments is a necessity for all citizens.

Unfortunately, reliance on the local media, with its fondness for sensationalism and raising false alarms, is impractical for the modern businessmen and diplomats. Yet, ignoring your security risks can be even more disastrous to your interests and families.

In such vital matters as physical and economic security, increasingly larger number of key personalities and agencies are relying on our report for advice.

We provide highly informed and in-depth reports from grass root resources, covering each and every development that is occurring in central Asia.

These reports cater to provide on-time and reliable analysis of the situation, forewarning in times of real danger, but dispelling any false alarms.

These reports are published weekly by BrassTacks, and include city-wise threat level indicators, security situation analysis and recommendations for personal and travel safety.

Our consultants work in close liaison with a network of advisors including ex-servicemen, senior government officials, strategic analysts and media reporters. Delivered directly to your email, these reports are an invaluable resource for all citizens and expatriates to know when to stay calm, and when to pack up and leave.

With your business, strategic and financial interests in Pakistan, you have all the reason to keep an eye on the security issues in the country and in the entire Gulf and South Asian region.

There is no doubt that security issues are primary concerns for all business and trading establishments in the South Asia countries.

Client Testimonials:

"I have been subscribing to the weekly situation report and threat analysis for approximately nine months. I find the content useful and the analysis appropriate in providing prior warnings of potential future threats. Zaid Zaman also backs-up the document with regular personal meetings to discuss company specific problems along with telephone calls to alert of any sudden changes to the threat levels. The cost of the service I find to be acceptable and I would encourage others to subscribe." - Jim McCann, General Manager, Tullow Pakistan Developments

"Relevant, timely, apparently well-informed and therefore highly useful. It is always difficult to evaluate service in this specialist field because real effectiveness can be defined as the avoidance of problems due to the deployment of well-founded information. Advice received to date fulfills that definition and the reports enjoy this Company's confidence regarding analysis of complex security conditions here in Pakistan and practical advice derived therefrom." - T.C. Duckworth, General Manager, Shell Development and Offshore Pakistan BV
