Key Highlights
The motor insurance market consists of motor insurance for personal and commercial vehicles, including cars, light and heavy trucks, vans, motorcycles and mopeds. The value of the motor insurance market reflects gross premium incomes. Gross premium income is defined as the insurer's premium income for the year from its policies, calculated without reduction for reinsurance premiums paid or payable by the insurer. Any currency conversions used in the creation of this profile have been calculated using constant 2016 annual average exchange rates. The motor insurance market depends on a variety of economic and non-economic factors, and future performance is difficult to predict. The forecast given in this report is intended as a rough guide to the direction in which the market is likely to move. This forecast is based on a correlation between past market growth and the growth of base drivers, such as population numbers, GDP growth, and long-term interest rates.

The UK motor insurance market is expected to generate total gross premium income of $36.9bn in 2016, representing a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 2% between 2012 and 2016.

The personal segment is expected to be the market's most lucrative in 2016, with total gross premium income of $29.1bn, equivalent to 78.9% of the market's overall value.

With recent drops in the price of oil and an increased employment rate, the UK has seen an increase in the number of cars on the road, with use for commuting and business up.
