Nursing Leadership

Description: The Canadian Journal of Nursing Leadership is a quarterly publication intended to serve the information needs of those in leadership positions in nursing management, practice, education and research.

Manuscripts selected for publication are of importance to those involved in all aspects of nursing - acute care, community-based care, long-term care and other nursing initiatives.

The journal is a refereed journal. Manuscripts are initially reviewed by the editor in chief and undergo blind review by at least two external referees. Selection is based on the criteria of originality, timeliness and relevance to the needs of readers. Content is selected by its ability to promote excellence in enabling wellness and providing care.

The Canadian Journal of Nursing Leadership is part of a wider series of healthcare publications aimed at promoting exchanges between researchers, health professionals, policy makers and other stakeholders that yield innovative and effective healthcare ideas, policies and practices, in order to increase interdisciplinary capacity among researchers, policy makers, professionals, and corporate and institutional leaders.
